Kay Payne's Letter To Medical Journal Gets Wide Acclaim

A letter from Dr. M. B. Payne's daughter, Kay to the publisher of a leading medical journal has attracted the attention of much of the medical profession.

Kay, a 13 year old 7th grader at Roy G. Eversole School in Hazard, has received letters from doctors in Arizona, and phone calls from other medical journals after her letter was published in "Medical World News."

The letter concerns her father, Dr. M. B. Payne, who has been seriously ill since October with what doctors describe as a rare case of brain deterioration.

Kay's letter and the magazine publisher's reply are on today's Herald editorial page.

Dr. Payne is recovering from a stroke and is now in a Lexington hospital.

The Director of the University of Kentucky's East Kentucky Resources Development project at Quicksand told the Perry County Development Association Monday night that this region suffers from what he calls an "image gap."

Dr. Mike Duff, who lived at Allais as a boy and later graduated from Buckhorn High School and Berea College, said the image America has of Eastern Kentucky is not entirely created by "outsiders."

"We create an image of ourselves when we talk negatively," he said. "We have got to create a true image of Eastern Kentucky, a positive image."

The development specialist said an "image gap" also plagues the mountains, and that bold, creative thinking is required to close it.

Dr. Duff said that mountain people who are victims of "an unequal educational process" must be developed so that they can become involved in decision-making.

Another issue at stake in this part of the country is that of unequal taxation. "The giants are taxed too little," he said, while the poor are taxed too much.

Dr. Duff encouraged the regional, or multi-county approach to solving traditional problems in Eastern Kentucky.

"County lines don't count in river and forest development," he said, and asked how a river basin or an expansive woodland could possibly be developed except on a regional basis.

He referred to one instance in which research has shown that it would be desirable for five sparsely-populated counties to go together in the operation of a single high school if the problem of transportation could be solved.

Dr. Duff touched upon the federal legislation that has been enacted on behalf of this region, the Appalachia Recovery Bill and last year's Economic Opportunity Act.

He said one reason for the confusion and resentment surrounding the EOA is that it attempts to by-pass existing state channels and set up direct communications between the local community and Washington.

Two PCDA sub-committees rendered reports to the parent organization on their activities since the last meeting.

The Rev. Charles Synnor read a preliminary report of some of the topics under discussion by the Industrial Development Committee, which said that Perry County's touchy labor climate hurt the community's chances of attracting outside industry.

An objective of the Industrial Development Committee is to try to help ease some of the tensions in the county and establish lines of communication between differing groups of people, to improve the local "human relations climate," as the report termed it.

Steve Sandlin of Buckhorn reported that the first month of the county's clean-up project, which is sponsored by the Community Facilities Committee of PCDA, has been quite successful.

Sandlin called it "the greatest undertaking in Kentucky." He said that over 50 truck loads of trash have been removed from near Grapevine alone, and that as of Monday, 154 old cars have been removed from the highways.

He also reported that the people of the county were responding very well to the project. "We have not been insulted one time," he said, and added that most folks are glad to have the old auto bodies carted off.

City Will Begin Enforcing Housing Code On 1,501 Buildings

Baker-Oakhurst-Cedar Street Section Will Be Brought Up To Standard Now; Code Enforcement In Bluegrass Delayed 'Til 1971

Hazard's City Commission this afternoon passed an ordinance that revises the city's plan to enforce its housing code.

The new ordinance eliminates six neighborhoods from the compliance program and places the remaining seven neighborhoods in an enforcement-priority list.

The ordinance gives top priority to the Baker, Oakhurst and Cedar Streets section, calling for immediate compliance with local housing regulations in that neighborhood.

Enforcement of the code in the Backwoods and Bluegrass neighborhoods is not scheduled to begin until after 1970.

Here are the neighborhoods eliminated from the jurisdiction of Hazard's housing code, along with the respective reasons for being left out:

1. the downtown area: all substandard structures will be torn down or brought up to standard through the High Street and North Main Street urban renewal projects;

2. the Yards: this section is outside the city limits and therefore is out of local housing code jurisdiction;

3. Liberty Street: upgrading of houses in that section is to be rendered through the current Liberty Street urban renewal projects;

4. Lothair: outside the city limits;

5. La Citadelle area: all houses in this area are presently up to standard;

6. Woodland Park: this neighborhood is presently up to standard.

Exclusion of these neighborhoods from the enforcement program eliminates 564 houses, leaving a total of 1,051 houses subject to the code.

A previous survey of Hazard's housing conditions describes 177 of these as poor—which means they must either be torn down or repaired—and 495 as fair, or in need of some repair.

Hazard has a fulltime Building Inspector assigned to enforce the city's housing code, through the City Manager's office. He is Ed Combs, a retired railroad man, hired to the $3,000 a year job earlier this year.

The City was obliged to revise and update its housing code and begin enforcement of it in order to have its "workable program" renewed.

A workable program for city improvement is required by federal agencies before Hazard can qualify for such aid as urban renewal projects and matching government funds for facilities such as the sewage treatment plant.

Those neighborhoods affected by the ordinance, and the chronological order in which the regulations will be enforced, are as follows:

1. BAKER OAKHURST AND CEDAR STREETS: This neighborhood contains a total of 241 housing units to be inspected, 88 of them classified as "fair". Starting date is April, 1965. Estimated completion date is October, 1965.

2. BIG BOTTOM EAST MAIN AND CHESTER STREET: This neighborhood contains a total of 99 housing units to be inspected, 52 classed as fair; two classed as poor. Starting date: November, 1966. Completion date: April, 1967.

3. WALKERTOWN SECTION: This neighborhood contains 241 housing units to be inspected. A total of 130 are classed as fair; 42 are considered poor. May, 1967 is the starting date for enforcement. Completion date is May, 1969.

4. WABACO SECTION: This neighborhood contains 88 housing units to be inspected. Forty nine are classed as fair, eight are considered poor. Enforcement date is June, 1969.

Completion date is December, 1969.

5. ALLAIS SECTION: This neighborhood contains a total of 52 housing units to be inspected. Classed as fair are 19 units, with 32 considered poor. January, 1970 is the starting date at Allais, with estimated completion date January, 1971.

6. BLUEGRASS SECTION, (Town Mountain): A total of 46 housing units are in Bluegrass. Six of them are classed as fair, 40 are considered poor. It has not been finally determined if Bluegrass will be subject to urban renewal treatment or housing code compliance, but the tentative date for housing code compliance, if it is used, is February, 1971.

7. BACKWOOD SECTION: This neighborhood contains 282 housing units to be inspected. A total of 151 of these are considered fair with 53 classed as poor.

The ordinance places the Backwoods in the last priority because of the possibility of a future urban renewal project in that neighborhood.

The ordinance says enforcement of the local housing code is necessary "if safe, decent, sanitary housing is to be provided for all the citizens of Hazard."

COUNTY COURT CLERK

Dear Friends,

I am running in the May 25th Primary election for the Republican nomination to the office of County Court Clerk. You the electors are entitled to know the background and qualifications of all your candidates. I have lived most of my life in Perry County, attended Hazard Schools and was graduated from the University of Kentucky with a degree in Accounting. I am a member of the Baptist Church, Eastern Star, White Shrine, Daughters of America, Business and Professional Women's Club and Perry County Republican Women's Club.

My first job after completing college was five years with the forerunner of the present Welfare Program. After that I was City Clerk of Hazard for five years, a hotel auditor one year, property auditor for the U. S. Air Force one year, Deputy Clerk seven years and for the past eleven years have been your County Court Clerk.

Most of my staff have been with me for at least ten years, and are very efficient. We are constantly on the alert to do everything possible, practical and economically feasible to upgrade the operation of the office, and endeavor to perform whatever services you require of us, accurately, promptly and courteously, realizing this very important office belongs to you, the people of Perry County, and that it is only entrusted to us for the term of office. After moving to the temporary Court House, in order to safeguard your record in case of fire, flood or vandalism, we micro-filmed all index, deed and marriage books and almost all of the mortgage and lease books. This year we plan to rebuild the two plat or map books.

You do not owe this office to me, nor do you owe it, or any other office to any candidate. You do owe it to yourself to elect the best qualified candidate to each office.

On the basis of my qualifications, experience, proven integrity and ability, I am asking for your vote, influence and support of my candidacy for nomination and re-election to the office of County Court Clerk.

The record on which I run is my own.

Thank you very much.

CHRISTOPHER

Writer Urges Parents To Keep Children Away From River Banks

By Mrs. Ernest Fritts, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maggard and sons, Mike, Roger and Greg, have been visitors in our midst during the Spring Vacation of the Kentucky Schools. They returned to their home in Waynesburg Saturday.

Mrs. Chris Turner, a former resident of our town, now living in New Orleans, is the houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reeves. Mrs. Turner was called here due to the serious illness of her brother, Mr. Walter Howard, near Hyden.

Miss Lisa Jean Erwin, of Lexington, spent the Spring Vacation with her aunts, Mrs. B. Mansfield and Mrs. Ernest Fritts, Jr., in Hazard.

Karen, Larry and Robin Fritts and their guest, Lisa Erwin, were visitors in the home of the Fritts' grandparents Saturday. On Saturday afternoon they all enjoyed a trip to the Perry Bowl.

Mrs. Margaret Parker has returned to her home here after spending the winter with relatives in Alabama.

The members of the Kilburn family have been called here on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Kilburn's father, who is a patient in a local hospital.

Mrs. A. J. Sparkman entertained with a baby shower at her home Friday evening, Mrs. Carl Newberry being the honoree. Several ladies were present and enjoyed the evening.

Mrs. Sparkman with the aid of Mrs. A. J. Newberry served delicious refreshments to the guests. Mrs. Newberry was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

A new family has moved into the Price Housing Unit. In the twelve units, there are more than 40 children ranging from 6 months to 18 years. It is a tragic condition when these children have no place to play, only on the railroad track in the ditch along the tracks or up and down the road, where traffic is heavy most all hours of the day. We have heard "recreation" over and over again, but we still see nothing in sight.

"Wake up, Perry County!" and give these children a break. They deserve something. They can't belong to the clubs because of finances. The only swimming pool they know is the stream that runs near our little town known as "Kentucky River". These waters are so full of mine waste and refuse that if the Health Department should make a survey, I am sure it would be labeled "Stay Out". Maybe we will share in the funds allotted for this little part of Appalachia, we can at least hope.

A PLEA TO PARENTS

We know of the tragic death of the little boy in Lothair last week. He was playing near the waters edge and slipped into the river. The banks of the river are slippery from the retained tide which makes it very dangerous for little ones. I have seen little three and four year olds playing on these dangerous places in the past week. Mother, the next victim could be your child. Please! Keep them Away From The River.

CHAVIES

Mrs. Duff Speaks
On School Library
At PTA Meeting

By Mrs. Hale Bowling

Miss Lilly Margaret Johnson fell off a horse and broke her collarbone. We hope she gets along well.

Miss Anne Sharron Gross came home Friday to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gross, during the nine day spring vacation from Lees College.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown Deaton of Middletown, Ohio, visited Mrs. Deaton's mother, Mrs. George White and Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Davidson last week.

The Chavies P.T.A. met last Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bare attended and Mr. Bare led devotions. Then Mr. Estil Herald showed a film on communism. Brenda Kay White, a sixth grade pupil in Mr. Herald's room, assisted by explaining the meaning of the film. Mrs. Don Duff spoke to us about the importance of a library for our school and the ways in which good reading habits can help our children all through life. Mr. Estil Herald then talked about the Adult Education Program which will start soon. Kindergarten is to start two weeks after regular school goes out. The next P.T.A. is to be held the first Tuesday in May. We hope more parents and teachers will attend in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Napier, of Dayton Ohio were here last week visiting relatives and friends. Mrs. Napier is the former Belva McLemore.

Mr. Scott E. Duff spent Saturday night with Mrs. Jean Duff and Mr. and Mrs. Hale Bowling and family.

There were approximately seventy people who attended church Sunday at the Baptist Church. Among the ones who preached were Mr. Henry Mullins, Carl Sloan, Johnny Ghent, Ader McDaniel, and Jack Davidson. Three ladies united with the Chavies Baptist by letter in the Sunday meeting. Mr. George Feltner was at church also. Starting the 8th of May, there will be a meeting every Saturday night.

Mrs. Lucan Sanders gave a birthday party for her little daughter, Melissa, who was eight years old. Several of her little friends attended and the time was spent playing games and taking of refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Your correspondent and her daughter, Joy LaVonne, were in Hazard Saturday and noticed a lot of candidates who seemed to be very busy.

Its staff includes the following: Mr. Sherman Coda, Principal; Mr. Johnny Leveridge, Director of Physical Education; Miss Sandra Lindon, Music Supervisor; Mr. David Jones, Art Supervisor; Mrs. Sally Summers and Mrs. Goldie Zimmerman, first grade teachers; Miss Oakley Combs, Second grade; Mrs. Gladys Coda, third grade; Mrs. Delsina Boleyn, fourth grade; Mrs. Mae R. Several of our teachers are enrolled in the "Modern Math" course being offered by Eastern State College and all are looking forward to our new textbook adoptions which we will be teaching next year.

A well-rounded academic program is carried out at Combs Grade School. This is evidenced by the large number of the following students who are on our Honor Roll: Second Grade: Gary Hamblin, Karen Hensley, Ronnie Thompson, Judy Morris, Thelma Combs, Mary Deaton, Hattie Southwood. Third Grade: Brenda Turner, Johnny Baker, William Morris, Arthur Morgan, Raleigh Honchel, Stevie Burton, Sandra Sams, Ricky Johnson, Carol Bryant, Paul Fugate. Linda Gayheart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gayheart of Lotts Creek, will represent our school in the Perry County Spelling Bee to be held April 24, 1965 at the Dennis Wootton Elementary School. We are proud of the fact that our representative last year, Karen Sue Fugate, won second place in the spelling contest.

Another of our students brought honor to our school this year by winning second place in Junior High essay writing. Danny Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Martin, Hazard, Ky. wrote the second best essay in the county on "Fish and Wildlife. How They Benefit my Community."

Combs Grade School has an active P.T.A. Their most recent project is raising funds for a school library. The goal is $1200 and as of this date over $800 has been raised. A large portion of this was the profits gained from our Fall Carnival. Some has been raised by our own students sponsoring bake sales once a week in our school. At present, members of the P.T.A. and our students are selling toothbrushes to boost our funds nearer the goal. We would like to take this opportunity to thank all who have helped in any way in this great undertaking of establishing a library in our school.

We also appreciate the fact that our gymnasium is being repaired and enlarged. Jobless fathers, under the direction of the Board of Education Maintenance Supervisors, are doing extensive repairs on this building.

Plans are under way by the Perry County Board of Education to establish Adult Education Classes and a Summer Kindergarten Program in our school, and other schools in the county, under the auspices of the Economic Opportunity Act. The Adult Classes are for all persons eighteen years and over who would like to continue an education that was interrupted by one cause or another. The Kindergarten Program called "Operation Head Start" is for all children who will be entering the first grade this fall.

The philosophy of Combs Grade School Personnel is to try to develop every student to his fullest potential and to aid in every way possible to up-grade the educational status of our citizenry.

Hazard Kiwanians Hear Address On 'Your Home' By Rev. Hugh Riley

Kiwanians were treated to an exceptionally fine program Tuesday evening, April 6, when C. Beckham Caudill presented Rev. Hugh Riley as guest speaker to the Hazard Kiwanis Club, meeting at Don's Restaurant.

Using as his subject, "Seven Ways to Get the Most Out of Your Home", Dr. Riley recommended that all husbands take time to give their wives more consideration. His perscription of "pills", classified as "vitamins", is designed to be taken regularly by husbands:

1. Raise her (wife's) pay. Husbands can afford to grant their wives at least a 10% wage increase, since 10% of nothing remains nothing. Husbands tend to forget the many services wives perform: chef, chauffeur, laundress, baby-sitter and numerous other duties which would require a sizeable outlay of money if the same services were purchased on open market!
2. Tell her you love her. (Wives should be firmly seated.)
3. Let her in on ALL your plans. Husbands have no right to complain when dinner is cold if wives are not informed of delays.
4. Help around the house.
5. Remember her birthday and wedding anniversaries. It will also help if husbands remember children's birthdays.
6. Be the "Great Lover". (This probably will require much reading and research.)

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmly so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH today at drug counters everywhere.

Community Action

One criticism of the community action program is that there is too much planning and not enough action.

This criticism is certainly valid on the local level. While the counties are seeking, and getting, small grants with which to hire local, professional "planners," worthwhile projects already in existence languish for want of a few dollars.

The Hound Dog Hookers at Blackey is a case in point. The rug-hooking enterprise now employs 13 local people, full time. But these 13 are overworked because of large orders. The hookers are desperately needed, if the industry is to keep the contracts it has.

In order to avoid a decline in the industry, it must continue to expand. But lack of training more workers has tied the hookers' hands.

The Hound Dog Hookers, and Blackey in general, is the most vivid example of "community action" in the federal anti-poverty plans. It is all right anywhere. The local initiative

A Month Of Effort

Perry County's clean-up campaign is a month old now and the progress so far is very encouraging.

Well over a hundred old auto bodies have been removed from our roadsides. Truckloads of litter and debris have been collected and hauled off to authorized dumps. The difference is obvious to the passing motorist, particularly along Route 28 near Buckhorn, and from Cornettsville to Leatherwood.

Particularly encouraging has been the response of Perry County's 8 magistrates in sponsoring clean-up in their respective districts, and the active participation of the State Highway, Education and Health Departments, and the Hazard Vocational School.

After a long time has been and will continue to be, it is fair to say that at times these agencies appear to be bearing the entire burden of this campaign. To the extent that the campaign is a success, it is what is the individual citizen in the county doing.

The clean-up project has had a strong impact so far and for this we can be thankful. It has made the difference between a halfhearted effort and a willing one. But if we are to make a real difference, it is not enough to lurk in the potential apathy of the citizen, in our inherent willingness to do as soon as we see "the government" taking a large part of the responsibility for the clean-up.

We must not let this happen. We must keep in mind that these fine public agencies are helping us because we invited them to, and that the real responsibility for cleaning up the county remains with us, local people as individuals. Perry Countyans. Starting with our own homes, and with our own property, and with that section of the public highways nearest our property we as individual citizens must remain committed to the struggle until it is emphatically won.

A large crowd turned out for the kickoff dinner a little over a month ago and everybody had a nice time, and proved to their neighbors they were interested in cleaning up the county. A lot of politicians and candidates and public office holders were there, as well as members of local civic clubs, all promising to want a clean county.

Now that the first month is over, we will see just how many of those at the dinner are only fairweather friends or sunshine patriots, as Thomas Paine would say.

Now that we are in the thick of the battle, we will see how many real soldiers there are in this army.

What have YOU done to clean up this still-nasty place?

A Tribute To Dr. Payne

(Editor's note: The following letter from Miss Kay Payne, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Payne of Hazard, was published in the April 9 issue of the medical journal, "Medical World News." In publisher M. M. Geffen's column, Like Mr. Geffen, and like thousands of Perry Countyans who know and admire Dr. Payne, we too feel totally inadequate in trying to say something appropriate about Kay's letter. Perhaps this is because her letter itself says so much, so well.)

Dear Editor:

It is amazing what I have learned in the few issues of your magazine. I am by no means a genius, but I find your magazine quite helpful sometimes.

First, I will explain myself. I am thirteen years of age. I go to Bay G. Eversole Elementary School. I live in a town with 6,000 population. I will try to explain how I came about reading your magazine. In October of '64 my father, Dr. M. B. Payne, told me he had been sick ever since my father was more than devoted to his work. He was always making house calls, but I from door to door. He had to cross mountains and creeks, he had to drive for everything he had. For one thing, he had his practice and the people involved in it. He was in a hospital with his brain slowly deteriorating.

So I decided to help him. In your journal you seem to give a lot of credit to the people that make discoveries. I thought, "What if I can help him? What if he even works twice as much? What if he is contented with it? He cares little for the money, but he only cares for the people he serves, rich or poor. In my opinion these men need credit too. They need a lot of credit, I am sure, more than the others."

Miss Kay Payne, Woodland Park, Hazard, Ky.

Beneath Kay's letter, publisher Geffen wrote:

Of all the letters we have received, none has affected us so deeply. We talked to Miss Payne by telephone and discovered that she is gravely ill in a Louisville hospital, while her mother remains in the little coal-mining town of Hazard, Ky., to care for a family of four children and handle the details of her practice. This is largely a matter of scraping out a living from a life of unpaid bills. The medical profession has not been an easy one in the coal-mining region of Hazard, Ky. Nevertheless, Miss Payne told us that her recent interest in MWN is closely associated with her growing interest in becoming a doctor like her father.

We feel keenly the inadequacy of any kind of answer to the young lady's charge that we neglect to give credit to the unsung men of medicine. Many times in this column I have paid tribute to the small-town doctor, the general practitioner, the man who is making an indispensable contribution to medicine by his unutilized efforts and his sterling example. In giving attention to the men who "make the discoveries and inventions," we are in a sense paying tribute to the Dr. Paynes everywhere by encouraging efforts to make their practice better and their lives more livable.

But perhaps the best answer to Miss Payne is in her own letter and in her interest in becoming a physician. The example she has set has apparently shown her that the nonmaterial satisfactions of his kind of medical life are all the reward that is required for some people. How very fortunate for the world that this is true!

Harry Caudill Praises Cleanup

Gary, Laud and honor to the people of Perry County and all now pushing the clean up program! Unless the people of eastern Kentucky and the county government's clean up their littered and befouled landscape, it is hard to see a reasonably decent future for the area. Perry County is leading the way and it is to be hoped that it will set an excellent example for every mountain county. Mountainers like to be proud of their pride, but pride does not exist in the absence of cleanliness and order. Your paper and others like it in mountain counties could help a great deal by publishing stories and pictures about people who are so unpatriotic and careless that they dump trash and garbage in streams, and on road sides, and otherwise defile their own nesting grounds.

In Defense Of Appalachia

Today, as I look again at these beautiful mountains and the little village of Oneida which is very much a part of Appalachia, I sincerely wish that many who are earnestly concerned about this poverty stricken section could look from my window. Some would be surprised at what they see, or perhaps, at what they do not see!

There has been such an emphasis placed upon an unfortunate segment of this region's inhabitants, that far too many people see only a vision of ignorance, illegitimacy, destitution, human suffering and in general, despair at the very mention of the name Appalachia. Concerned people have had painted for them so many pictures of destitution, by modern methods of mass communication, that the words "destitution" and "Appalachia" seem synonymous to many Americans outside the Appalachian Region.

I write this not to criticize those who are making a sincere effort to help struggling Americans who really need help, nor to criticize those who are interested in making it possible for the people of Appalachia to help themselves. Many individuals do need individual help and Appalachia, as a whole, does need outside assistance to give her an opportunity to help herself.

On the other hand, this article is intended as an indictment of those who viciously paint a distorted scene and present it as a true and total picture of Appalachia as a whole, implying that all who live in the region are greatly to be pitied and are beyond helping themselves.

Recently, I read an article, concerning my village and its immediate area, that was so distorted I believe righteous indignation would have excused me if I had given way to my impulsive desire to seize the author by the heels and shake him until his clever scheme for raising money did not seem so clever after all.

The article, in one sentence, suggests that most of the people of this region are feeble minded because of the practice of marrying one's kin. In another sentence the article states that most of the girls at the age of fourteen have already had at least one baby and often this was by their father or brother. On and on it describes the ignorance of these people in the "boondocks," implying that all are deserving of pity and help. The sweeping statement that only the author's organization is doing anything to relieve the misery of these pitiful creatures. He does not bother to tell of the churches of the community or of the comparatively new, three hundred thousand dollar public elementary school which boasts a number of teachers with Master's degrees. Nothing is said of the Oneida Institute which has been serving these struggling Americans since 1899 and whose influence started the very work that the author's organization has sought to carry on in recent years.

Many of the fine workers in the organization the author represents have been embarrassed by the many false implications made by their sensational-seeking author. I do not seek further embarrassment for these good people, but I do wish to point out to you, my friends, the need to beware of such pictures of Appalachia. They are distorted and their motives for being presented are not worthy of our concern!

Yes, I do wish you could see from my window. The scene is quite different from the one often presented. It is true that one can see a number of the inhabitants that culturally and educationally retarded, but the other side of the picture begins to come into focus when one remembers that even in this little school of Oneida, approximately seventy-five percent of the graduates go to further educational training. I feel sure it will be quite a surprise to many of you to know that in this community of approximately five hundred, by just making a cursory count, thirty-five college graduates, several of whom have completed four years of graduate work beyond their college degree, can be counted!

Coming into this area twelve years ago from the aristocratic blue grass country of Kentucky, I was surprised to find many people culturally advanced beyond anything I had known in the blue grass. Some of their ways were different, but often the differences were quite refreshing. Integrity, honesty, sincerity, pride—these are realities in the lives of many of these fine mountaineers!

How do you picture Appalachia? Come. Look through my window. You will not go away thinking of these people as a lost generation almost beyond help. I take pride in the fact that I, an outlander, have been accepted as a citizen of this wonderful region of our United States.

BOOK REVIEW

All books reviewed in this column are available at the Bobby Davis Memorial Library.

The University of Kentucky recently published two books that should be of extreme interest to all Kentuckians, and particularly to former and prospective UK students.

One, "The University of Kentucky: The Maturing Years," by Charles Gene Talbert, is all text that describes the major episodes of the institution's colorful history since Henry Stites Barker succeeded James K. Patterson as President in 1911.

Talbert traces the evolution of the University from a small school in that year through its rise to "the threshold of greatness" when Frank Dickey assumed the presidency in 1956.

Though the Talbert volume is indispensable UK history, its companion, "Hail Kentucky!" by Helen Deiss Irvin, is by far the most entertaining. Primarily a picture book, it nicely supplements the Talbert text.

The handsomely bound and illustrated "Hail Kentucky!" contains hundreds of photographs that trace the physical evolution of the University's campus, as well as the continuing change in style of dress and student behavior.

Many now prominent Kentuckians in several fields are shown in their student days, including former Gov. Bert Combs, Indiana University's Elvis Stahr, and of course former Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler as the energetic coach of the UK girl's basketball team, captained by Vassar College president Sarah Blanding.

Kentucky's rise to prominence in the world of athletics is described in photographs, including some of UK all-America basketballer Johnny Cox of Hazard.

The Bobby Davis Library has a copy of each book. But UK's admirers would find personal copies a handsome addition to the home book shelf.

"Hail Kentucky!" sells for $2.50. "The Maturing Years" by Talbert is $5.00.

"Community Action" Is No Bureaucrat's Cliche At Blackey

by Gurney Norman

The term "community action" has been bandied about so much in the passage of the anti-poverty bill that it is about as cliché as cliché. But cliché or not, it is the simplest way to say what is now going on in Blackey, in Letcher County.

A few years ago Blackey was just another idle victim of a failed coal industry, a sleepy little place with broken sidewalks and glum people without much to do, not very different from dozens of other communities of equal size in every county in Eastern Kentucky.

Today, however, it has a thriving "home industry" so busy it hardly meets the demand for its product: a newly-organized rug-hooking enterprise that employs 13 adults and young people, a newly-organized boys' club and an active community improvement committee with a ladies auxiliary that has just sponsored a cleanup drive and is now laying plans for certain beautification projects within the town.

What has changed? The answer would trace it to the energy of Mrs. Lundy Adams, a Blackey physician who was the driving force in establishing the Hound Dog Hookers rug-hooking corporation. She now provides full-time employment for eight people in the Blackey area. Mrs. Adams is on leave from her teaching job at the High School this year to devote her time to promoting the Hookers and Blackey in general.

But when talking about it, Mrs. Adams is quick to point out the emergence of several capable leaders in the community, and the general spirit of cooperation that seems to have united the various organizations that have sprung up recently.

Mrs. Gladys Buckhold is one such leader. She and 15 members of the ladies auxiliary of the Blackey Improvement Committee are taking the initiative in beautifying their town, now that the entrenched litter has been virtually conquered.

The group plans to plant flowers and shrubs along the main street, and to erect in the center of town, in front of the Hound Dog Hookers' headquarters, a small park enclosed by a rustic rail fence.

"Of course we're working without money," Mrs. Buckhold says. "But I do believe the people of Blackey are beginning to be conscious of the state we've been living in, and are starting to look up and hope for something better."

The Blackey Woodcrafters are just now getting organized, but after only a few weeks the organization seems to have caught on with the young people in the community.

About 20 grade and high school students at Letcher High School on the road have begun working with various native woods as an improvised workshop in the Blackey grade school building. Generally presided over by group president Bill Caudill of Blackey and a young New York artist named Larry Herman who was drawn to the Kentucky mountains by a New York Times article. Larry lives with a local family for the time being and devotes most of his time to the Woodcrafters.

Though the response from the young people has so far been good, the group's leaders have local adults will eventually get interested in woodcrafts in the same way others in the community got interested in rug hooking as a money-making enterprise that will expand Blackey's existing, and flourishing home industry.

The fame of the Hound Dog Hookers is rapidly expanding, to the extent that the few hookers now engaged in the work sometimes have to work day and night to fill the orders that flood in.

The orders are so heavy, in fact, the Hookers desperately need some help and Mrs. Adams is trying now to encourage other folks in the Blackey area to become interested in learning the art.

She would like to find some money somewhere, at least $5,000, with which to train 20 people in rug hooking. She had hopes the federal government, under the anti-poverty bill's "community action" clause, might be her best hope, but so far she hasn't had any luck with that source.

So she continues to look around, and as the money seems to become more difficult to find, Mrs. Adams' anger continues to rise.

"We need twenty more hookers right now," she says.

"There's work for that many. They could earn a living at it. And as these markets continue to be uncovered, I know Blackey's home industry could grow to employ 150 people. But I can't convince the government of that."

For the time being, the overworked Hookers must carry on, often far into the night, to fill the orders for outlets in Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Washington, D.C. and of course Kentucky.

The difference Blackey's infant home industry has made in the lives of those that participate in it is perhaps typified by Mrs. Irene Dixon, mother of five children, two of them in high school, and wife of a partially disabled, part-time television repairman.

She hooks rugs all day in her bedroom, taking time off to tend to household duties. But when the orders for rugs come in thick and fast she doesn't get to take much time off. Rug hooking then becomes such a full time job that the giant size peanut butter jar in the kitchen has become a standing family joke.

But Mrs. Dixon's family has considerable compensation for occasional peanut butter lunches. Her earnings pay the children's school expenses. She has bought some new furniture. Now the Dixon family is beginning to repair and modernize its home. So far they have installed storm doors, paneling in the kitchen and new concrete walks outside, to name a few improvements.

"I'd be lost without it," says Mrs. Dixon, who will represent the Hookers in a rug hooking demonstration at the Dogwood Festival of Arts and Crafts in Knoxville later this month. "I enjoy my work and I enjoy these checks, too."

If orders continue to come in all year like they are now—they are backed up through May—the Hookers could approach the $1,000 each earnings mark.

Blackey's efforts to help itself has caught the eye of other communities out of the state, principally three cities in Ohio, Dayton, Springfield and Sandusky.

A Dayton television station was intrigued enough by the little town to come there a few weeks ago to film a program for a million viewers in the Dayton area.

An organization in Sandusky called Volunteers of America has more or less "adopted" Blackey, and has sent tons of clothing there and to surrounding communities.

Springfield has a "Blackey Committee" whose principal project now is to sponsor the 8th grade class on a three day trip to Springfield, some time next month.

In her enthusiasm for the home industry program and the promise she is convinced it has, Mrs. Adams does not forget the other small profit-making industries near Blackey.

She has prepared a mimeographed brochure of information that lists Clifton Caudill's sawmill nearby; an egg production plant at Ulvah, down the road a piece (8,000 chickens); the Country Kitchen at Red Star, a restaurant operated by a disabled miner and his wife, Essie Collins' sewing center at Red Star; Darrel Hampton's home-made chairs at Jeremiah, and last but certainly not least, Boone Boy Industries on the old Stuart Robinson Campus at nearby Letcher.

Last November the Herald carried a feature story on Boone Boy Industries. We reported then that Boone Boy employed 7 full-time workers and had four main outlets for its product: new living room suites.

A follow-up interview this week with the manager, Billie Lois Baker of Jeremiah, gives a vivid indication of how business has been the past few months. Boone Boy now employs 20 people, full-time; it turns out 200 suits of furniture a month, with so many orders the small plant is currently 72 suits behind; retail outlets now include 39 cities and towns in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

Among these are 4 stores in Louisville, 3 in Lexington, one of which says it can sell 700 Boone Boy suits a year, if given a local franchise; and two stores in Winchester.

Boone Boy is now making plans to build its own plant which would, Mrs. Baker says, enable the firm to employ 50 people.

"Community action" may by now be a cliché among Washington bureaucrats in the Office of Economic Opportunity.

But at Blackey, it is something you can see as soon as you drive across the bridge into town.

Two ladies who earn much of their family's support as members of the Hound Dog Hookers at Blackey are Mrs. Irene Kinneer left, and Mrs. Irene Dixon, shown at work in a bedroom at her home. Mrs. Kinneer divides her time between actual rug hooking and serving as shop manager at the Hookers headquarters.

Easter Sunrise Service will be held at Beverly April 18 at 6:30 o'clock.

Speeches, demonstrations, exhibits, a clothing style revue, and entertainment were the main attractions at the Red Bird Community 4-H Rally held Saturday, March 27 at the Red Bird High School.

Members of the Queendale and Red Bird 4-H Clubs gave demonstrations and speeches. 4-H Club exhibits on project work were on display from the Leslie County Pacemakers whose members are dormitory students at Red Bird, the Queendale and Red Bird Clubs.

Following the afternoon activities, fun booths were set up. This included a fortune telling booth and the throwing of wet sponges.

After a lunch of hot dogs, milk, potato chips, and ice cream, the group reassembled for the evening's activities. Lois Bischoff, leader of the Red Bird Club, gave a presentation on the objectives of 4-H Club work and its activities. This was followed by an explanation of each of the four H's by Corrine Baker, Mary Frances Saylor, Linda Slusher, and Jo Ann Brock.

Twenty-five girls from the three clubs modeled clothing in the 4-H Style Show.

Entertainment completed the third phase of the community rally. Randall Crouse, a teacher at Red Bird, gave his version of "The First Football Game". The Queendale Club sang three songs. The Red Bird Club presented two talent acts, "Crooked Little Man" and "I Ain't Down Yet."

The community rally was held in preparation for the Bell County 4-H Rally Day April 3 at the Arjay School. Approximately 150 persons attended the community rally.

The demonstration participants were Ruth Ann Schaeffer, Queendale, laying a pattern; Lorraine Brock, Red Bird, flower arrangements; Phyllis Roark, Queendale, making banana bread; Edna Mae Brock, Red Bird, cake decorating; Lois Bischoff, Red Bird, tuna twirls.

The speech participants were Bonnie Baker, Edna Mae Brock, Lois Bischoff and Marjory Schaeffer.

A Community 4-H Rally held Saturday, March 27 in Red Bird High School crowned the year's activities for the Red Bird 4-H Club. Sharing in the rally were the Queendale Club and the Pacemakers composed of dormitory girls from Leslie County.

Parents and friends joined the 4-H members and judges for demonstrations and speeches in the afternoon. The Red Bird Club sold food over the supper hour so guests could stay at the school and look over the displays by the three 4-H clubs and the Red Bird High School Future Nurses Club. Blue, red and white ribbons dotted the clothing, food, wood-working, posters, grooming kits, and other entries in the booths. A large bulletin board depicted the work and purposes of 4-H in the evening. "Fun booths" including fortune telling and the throwing of wet sponges were set up for entertainment.

A program in three parts concluded the rally. Explanations of 4-H were followed by a style revue in which the girls from the three clubs modeled the garments they had made. Entertainment features included a reading, "First Football Game," by Randall Crouse, songs by the Queendale Club, and the two talent acts by the Red Bird Club.

Approximately 150 persons attended the rally. Local club leaders are Mrs. Roberta Schaeffer, Queendale, Miss Dorothy Galau, Pacemakers, Miss Macel Neaderhiser and Lois Bischoff, Red Bird, reports Mrs. John W. Bischoff.

HENRY WOMBLES PERRY COUNTY JUDGE

Republican Primary, May 25, 1965

Citizens and Voters of Perry County:

I want to ask that you consider me for your Republican Nominee for Perry County Judge in the coming May 25th Primary Election.

I was born in Clay County fifty-two years ago and my father moved to Perry County when I was four years old. I attended the Hazard Schools while but had to quit before I finished, then I enrolled in the COLLEGE OF HARD KNOCKS and I haven't graduated from that college yet. I married Jim Daugherty's daughter, Mary, and we have raised three sons. Our oldest son, James, married Charlene Hall who was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hall who operated the Big Bottom grocery for years before his death. James is a graduate of Eastern State Teachers College and is now working on his Master's degree at Eastern. They have two children.

My middle aged son, Henry (Buz) married Flora-Jean Cox who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cox of Lothair. Mr. Cox was an employee of Alabama Block Coal Co., until the mine closed some years back. Buz is connected with the mining industry in Perry County. They have two children.

My youngest son, Bobby, graduated from Rawlins College in Florida and is now studying law at the University of Kentucky.

My mother was a Sizemore and a sister to Cliff Eye Bill Sizemore who lived in the Backwoods of Hazard for fifty years. My grandmother was a Napier from Leslie County, so you can start from there and trace kinfolk from now on.

I have been connected with the mining of coal most all my adult life, having worked with the Railroad in my earlier days.

Now let's get down to the business at hand.

War On Poverty

If I were to be asked as to WHY I decided to offer myself as a candidate for the office of COUNTY JUDGE OF PERRY COUNTY, I would have to say that the one most important thing was MY DESIRE TO JOIN THE WAR ON POVERTY.

Our people in Perry County are going through an ERA OF CHANGE. The huge rail lines that once provided employment for thousands of our people have closed down one after another, and have all but vanished from our county. When the big mine operators decided to pull up stakes and leave, they sold everything they owned in Perry County and left here taking their money with them, and leaving behind hundreds of holes in the ground and thousands of unemployed coal miners.

Now, due to the closing of these mines, our people have been left almost helpless in the way of earning a living. Very few of our miners know any other trade, their entire lives, as well as those of their fathers, has been concerned with the mining of coal. Since they have no other way to turn, our proud mountain people are being forced to sign up for unemployment, but the weekly benefits are so low, they cannot even buy food for their tables, much less clothe and pay for the education of their children.

Due to the GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION of our county and the LONG-NEGLECTED ROAD BUILDING PROGRAM which has continued to plague us, the small factories which are to be found in thriving communities all over other parts of our country are not interested in locating in our county, resulting in a severe unemployment situation which continues to grow more and more critical each day.

Our mountain people will sweat blood in order to send their children to college, only to find upon graduation that they must seek employment elsewhere. WHY IS IT that these young people must be denied the opportunities by which they can earn a living, and work and live among the people they love? It is to questions such as these that I, as YOUR COUNTY JUDGE, will be seeking NOT ONLY ANSWERS, BUT REMEDIES, and believe me, with your help, and God's, I WILL FIND THEM.

Regardless of the causes, we must begin by facing one important fact—Since we are living in what many people call a depressed area, many of our people need immediate relief, and all of Perry County needs permanent relief.

The 89th Congress of the United States of America has recognized our need for legislation. Our Republican Senator, Mr. John Sherman Cooper, helped sponsor a bill which has been passed by Congress, and is now known as the WAR ON POVERTY ACT. I have discussed at length this Poverty Act with Senator Cooper, and I am sure that you would be amazed to learn of the many provisions that it provides for both temporary and permanent relief for our PERRY COUNTY MOUNTAIN PEOPLE. Senator Cooper has furnished me a copy of this WAR ON POVERTY LEGISLATION, but space here will not permit me to go into the details of its various provisions. However, I will be more than glad to meet with any civic-minded organization in our county and discuss with them the provisions of this Act. Already, I have been asked by one of our very fine Parent-Teacher Associations in Perry County to attend their next meeting, discuss with them, and answer questions concerning the provisions of this Act.

With this Act now in effect, Perry County is standing on the threshold of complete economic recovery. The many projects for our county will be worked by PERRY COUNTY PEOPLE FOR DECENT RATES OF PAY. Tourist attractions that will bring people into the mountains by the thousands will not only beautify our county, but will provide still additional jobs for our people.

Never before in the history of our county, and probably never again will the Office of County Judge of Perry County be called upon to play such an important role as it will be asked to play in this WAR ON POVERTY.

I will welcome the opportunity to join this fight, and help stamp out our poverty in Perry County.

Industry In Our County

All of our people in Perry County are looking forward to the day when new industry will come to our community to make their home. Most of our people know of the long hard fight waged by our leading Perry County citizens for the past several years to entice these industries to come. All to no avail.

There are certain things a community must have before industry will settle there. Some of the most important things are good roads, a plentiful water supply, adequate power facilities, raw materials and plenty of labor. Our dreams of good roads into our county is soon to become a reality, with the building of the Carrs Fork Reservoir, water for industry will be available. Our Power Company is furnishing electricity and service to our people without equal anywhere, great outlays of money is being spent by the power company for new transmission lines in our county, in anticipation of greater demands, and in the face of advancing costs of material their rates are continually being lowered. New industry can be assured of ample electricity for their factories.

Perry County is blessed with many thousand acres coal reserves yet to be mined. Timber over our county is beginning to show promise. Labor is certainly one thing in our county for which there is no shortage, many of our people are just waiting to be trained for work in factories that might come to Perry County. It has been said that Labor Unions in Perry County might cause industry to be discouraged from coming here, but, nothing could be farther from the truth. In every industrial community in the United States you will find Labor Unions and in most every instance they are very helpful in raising the living standards of their many thousands members.

With the many benefits in store for the people of Perry County and in our eagerness to attract outside industry to settle here let us not make the mistake of overlooking the one industry that for the past several years saved Perry County from complete economical ruin—TRUCK MINING INDUSTRY. Although a great number of our people are in need of assistance the bank deposits of the Perry County banks are at a lifetime high. A brand new lending agency has been formed and as a result of its efforts new houses are being built all over Perry County and its deposits are in the millions. Coal tonnages moving out of Perry County is breaking records almost monthly.

I am mentioning these things to show the people that Perry County is a long way from being dead, that with the Appalachia Bill, and War On Poverty Bill and other related measures Perry County can during the next four years rid itself of poverty for all time to come. Please bear in mind that these things will not come easy. Remember, other counties in the depressed areas will be asking for assistance and it will be up to us to show our needs and convince the administrators of the various agencies that our need is greater, that we should be first and our benefits should be more.

If I am elected your County Judge I will spend my untiring efforts in furthering all industry, and in getting as many projects started in this county as it is humanely possible to start.

County Roads

Our Federal and State road building program is gradually beginning to creep into the mountain section of our state, already we have an excellent road from Jackson, Kentucky to all points north. Plans have been drawn, soon contracts will be let for extending the road from Jackson to Hazard and on to Whitesburg. This is all very good and the people of Perry County are thankful, but, what are we going to do about the people living in our rural sections on county roads that a billy-goat can't travel? Is it right for our Federal and State government to spend millions on top of millions of dollars on super highways when the people of our county are driving through mud over their hubcaps before they can get on one of these roads?

Since I announced for the office of County Judge I have attempted to cover part of the county, but I find that if I am to reach a great number of our people I am going to have to use a Jeep or better still a Saddle Horse. I have been told that some of our state maintained roads in the county became impassable this past winter and miners couldn't get to their jobs. If our county is going to attract outside industry then our roads must be improved.

Now I have been advised that under the Appalachia Bill money will be available for use in leasing surplus road machinery from the government and this machinery in turn can be used exclusively on our county roads. If I am elected your County Judge I will propose to the Fiscal Court that a road grader and bulldozer for each of our magisterial districts be obtained from the Federal Government. I would further recommend that the Magistrates in each district be in charge of their road building program and, that they obtain the operators for this machinery from their own district if at all possible.

The WAR ON POVERTY ACT provides for reclaiming abandoned auger mines and cutting bushes along the highways to beautify our county. But I can't for the life of me understand how our people can appreciate such beauty when they are wading mud up over their hips to get to and from their homes. If I am elected County Judge the dirt or the fur one will fly.

Hospitals And Miners Welfare Cards

The hospital situation in our county has created quite a stir in the past few years. The newspapers and radio in our county tell almost daily of the need for more money if the hospitals are to remain open. Ever since the Miners Welfare announced their intention to sell the miners hospital it has been a cause of very grave concern to our people.

It is not hard to understand why the miners are disturbed, just think a minute. Let's just suppose you had worked in the mines for years and had been a good dues paying member of the union, that you had participated in long costly walkouts and lost thousands of dollars in earnings in order to get a clause in your contract that would provide for hospitalization and welfare for you and your family, and that due to your efforts your welfare fund had accumulated over one hundred and five million dollars in its treasury, and some morning because you had through no fault of your own been put out of work, you received in the mail instructions to return your card for cancellation and you were to receive no further benefits from your union that you helped make great? I would just about bet that it wouldn't set too good with you either.

The big mines paid forty cents a ton on coal mined until they had to close, the little truck mines that sprang up all over the county paid forty cents a ton as long as they could, the big operator took his money and went home to other states but the little truck mine operator had no place to go because this is his home and he has no intention of leaving it.

Now, the question that is being asked by almost every miner in Perry County is, What can we do? Most people say nothing can be done. I say that the remedy lies in the Federal Courts. I believe this to be a clear case of discrimination, and that with the proper legal counsel I believe the welfare fund would be forced to reinstate these cards or divide and give each miner his proportionate share of the money he caused to be put in the treasury.

The County Judges offices will be open and all possible assistance given to any group of miners who want to explore the possibility of their cards being reinstated.

If the miners could get their cards back for which they are entitled just think how far this would go in relieving our hospital problem.

Law and Order in Perry County

When our law and order breaks down and the duly elected officials of our county fail to enforce and carry out the provisions of the law, then our county will be a dead duck. No industry will come to a county where there is no law and order. People will become jittery and afraid to lay down in their homes to sleep for fear that somebody they have offended will blow them into kingdom come during the night.

I know very well what the dynamiting can do to people because I have been on the receiving end, I know what it is to have a automobile and pickup truck and a garage blown into splinters in less than a minute. I know very well what it is like to see my son in bed with glass in his hair from blown out windows and my wife with pillows over her face and screaming and crying with hysteria.

If the people of Perry County will go to the polls on election day and cast their vote for officials who they know will work to put an end to this lawlessness then this dynamiting can be stopped in this county. The only possible way for undesirable officials to get in office is for good honest law-abiding citizens to neglect to vote.

The subject of dynamiting is one that I don't like to talk about much less write about. I think the people of Perry County know the stand I will take if elected to the Office of County Judge.

I would like to make this closing statement. I honestly believe that if I am elected your County Judge that I will make the best one you have had in years and one you will be proud of for years to come. I know when a person files for political office he will be subject to criticism and slander of all kinds, I feel this is the peoples right. I want the people to feel free to talk about me all they want to without fear of dynamite being put under their homes and their families being blown out in the road. The people can rest assured that I will file no suits for slander after the election is over. Neither will I bolt the ticket in an effort to defeat the nominee.

As you have already discovered I am a poor politician. I don't know how to make these maneuvers that can change the outcome in a race the night before the election.

Let the people decide and I will abide by that decision.

Most sincerely,

HENRY WOMBLES
